

“We Can’t Hear You!”

We need to make sure everyone is getting the message loud and clear ...
Americans want and need health care reform

Based on reports from the Hill, Congressional offices are hearing more from those who oppose reform than from those who support it. During August recess, we need to make sure the public understands what they have at stake and motivate them to give the press and public officials the right message: Americans want reform that makes health care affordable for all families.

Key messages for the coming weeks:

1. The current health care system is unsustainable. Now is the time to come together to fix what is broken and ensure that Americans have access to quality, affordable health care.
2. The health reform proposals will help middle-class families and make sure the system is fair by guaranteeing secure coverage and creating affordable health care options.
3. Congress and the Administration have provided American solutions that will make it more affordable for families to get insurance and the quality care they need. All the proposed plans are a major improvement over our current system.
4. We cannot afford to wait. America’s working families are struggling to pay skyrocketing health care costs or even maintain coverage in a stagnant economy with rising unemployment. We need health care reform now to ensure access to affordable, secure, quality health care for everyone.
